

TOBACCO MEN SUED.

Petition Asking $15,300 is Filed in U. S. Circuit Court at Covington.

A sensational suit for damages was filed in the United States Court at Covington last week against some of the most prominent men in Bracken county, the scene of violent night rider atrocities. The suit is brought by W. S. Henderson, a former resident of Augusta, Bracken county, but now in Cincinnati. There are 18 defendants.

Henderson's petition asks for $15,300 damages and sets forth that on December 30, 1907, he bought of Lewis Kinney and Daniel Shepard 7,000 pounds of tobacco. He alleges that the defendants, on the day that the tobacco was to be delivered at his place of business in Augusta, came to him armed and with threats of bodily harm and even death, forced him to cancel the contract he had made with Kinney and Shepard.

He further alleges that they conspired to break up his business and that the defendants came to him armed and forced him to sign a contract to cease buying tobacco in Kentucky or anywhere else.

These actions on the part of the defendants, he alleges, forced him to abandon his business and residence in Kentucky, which he claims damaged him to the extent of $5,000. By forcing him to quit buying tobacco in Kentucky he claims he was damaged to the extent of $10,000, and that he lost $300 when he was forced to cancel the contract with Kinney and Shepard.

Birds Also Dying From Drinking Elkhorn's Whisky-Poisoned Waters.

Reports continue to come in of the damage done by the big whisky flood, which came down Elkhorn creek when the Greenbaum distillery was burned at Midway, and 47,000 barrels of bottled in bond goods ran into the creek. In addition to killing all of the fish in the stream that did not fly before the fiery flood to the safety of the river, ducks, geese and, and many wild birds which drank the water have died.

Receiver for Central Home Telephone Co.

J. D. Powers, of Louisville, has been appointed receiver for the Central Home Telephone Company, Louisville, Ky., by Judge Cochran of the United States District Court at Maysville, upon the application of Judge Lassing, of Boone county, a bondholder and creditor of the company.

CHURCH CHAINED IN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Cardinal Gibbons Says: Absolute Separation in America Conducive to Religious Advancement.

The recent visit of Cardinal Gibbons has made an extraordinary impression upon Rome, and the common topic of conversation among Cardinals, prelates and churchmen of all degrees is one notable utterance, in which he compared American with European conditions of Catholicity greatly to the detriment of the latter.

Cardinal Gibbons ascribes most of the human drawbacks of Catholicity in Europe to the union of the church and State, and most of the blessings of the church in America to the separation of the two powers.

He declared he would not touch on the theory of the union, but asserts that the union which now exists between the church and State in most European countries is like a chain on the feet of the church, while in America the Government although formally separated from the church and the churches, is always willing to recognize the interests of religion and show its respect for religious principles.

"The American people," the Cardinal said, "consider religion as the basis of social morality and prosperity, hence it respects every organization that tends to keep these alive in public and private life."

To Test Legality of Bill.

Suit will be instituted against State Auditor F. P. James and the State of Kentucky within the next few days to enforce the payment of the $500,000 appropriation for the State University and two State Normal schools at Richmond and Bowling Green. Such is decision reached by representatives of the schools.

WOULD NOT PAY

Brings Suit Against Man Who Attempted to Collect His Bill.

In New York Mrs. Howard Gould brought suit for $50,000 against Frank A. McLaughlin, failing to collect a bill for various articles he made for her. McLaughlin began suit to recover the amount. A process server attempted to serve the summons on Mrs. Gould. Mrs. Gould alleges that he maliciously and cruelly insulted her as a result of which she says she sustained a severe nervous shock.

YOUNG WAR VETERAN

Has Developed Leprosy--A Week in Washington Before He Knew What Ailed Him.

There is leprosy in the District of Columbia. The plague victim is a young veteran of the Spanish war.

His name is John R. Early, 35 years old, whose home is in Lynn, N. C., where he has a wife and child. He came to Washington a few days ago, hoping to get a pension as an ex-soldier. He is now confined in a tent heavily guarded. When Early arrived in Washington he was taken sick on Friday afternoon. A physician was sent for.

One look at the unhappy man and the doctor cried, "You are a leper." The lumpy forehead, knotted in places under the skin; the blotches of whitening flesh, a stiffness of the joints. The physician at once notified the Health Department and the man was immediately removed.

When seen Sunday afternoon the leper sat in front of his tent; head bowed, eyes bent on a small book he held in his swollen hands. "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death," His lips moved to the words. He was reading the twenty-third Psalm.

Countless he sat, with crossed knees. Upon the approach of the physician the leper folded his New Testament.

In his face, lean, browned by the bronze tarnish of the tropics, there was nothing to revolt, nothing repulsive--until the eyes rested on his forehead.

There the unclean shield of the oldest plague in the world spread itself from temple to temple unflauntingly. The leper touched it with his big fingers. "I know. The seat of death is there. I am obliged to you for coming to see me. I know now that I am a condemned man--that the only question between me and an eternity is 'How far are we apart from each other?' I am resigned. I suppose if I were not a Christian, if I did not have God with me to sustain and comfort me, I would go insane, but I will not go insane. I can even be cheerful. I have a certain length of life left to me, and those who see me will not find me weeping."

"My unhappiness," he said, "is not for myself. I have a dear wife and little boy. He is only 7 months old."

During the progress of the Spanish-American War, Early was a private and saw duty in both Cuba and the Philippine. He is supposed to have contracted his dread disease in the Philippines, although he does not remember having come in contact with any leper. He served nine years in the regular army.

The district officials are endeavoring to make arrangements to have North Carolina care for him.

By the decision of Judge Thompson in the United States Court the Government wins in the contest it has been waging with the Cincinnati distillers in order to compel them to brand as "imitation whisky" the rapid process production which has for years been on the market under the name of whisky.

Snow in Baltimore.

There was a light fall of snow in the suburbs of Baltimore, Md., Wednesday night and flurries are reported from other points in Maryland.

Unitarian Faith.

It was not our purpose last week to stir those possessing both billious political and religious temperaments. Our purpose was to set some facts before our readers, which they, as Republicans or Democrats, have a right to know and since some plagiaristic garblers have viciously assailed us, we arise to a point of personal privilege under the God-given and inherent law of self-defense.

In Webster's unabridged dictionary we find "Unitarian" defined as follows:

"One who denies the doctrine of the trinity and ascribes divinity to God the Father only."

Now it doesn't take much of a logician to see how the Unitarians look upon Christ. The doctrine of the trinity--the Father, Son and Holy Ghost--is denied, and divinity being ascribed to the Father alone, of course cuts Christ and the Holy Ghost out of their creed.

The Unitarians acknowledge Christ as a kind of religious leader, but not possessing any supernatural power. They deny that he performed the miracles recorded in the New Testament.

The American Unitarian Association of Boston, publishes a booklet written by Rev. E. E. Hale, one of their ablest preachers, in which he sets forth their articles of faith as follows:

"The Fatherhood of God, The Brotherhood of Man, The Leadership of Jesus, Salvation by Character, The Progress of Mankind, onward and upward forever."

These articles of faith are all right for a church that believes in "Salvation by Character" and not by the atonement made on Calvary's Cross.

Rev. J. T. Sunderland another noted Unitarian preacher of the East, in a pamphlet issued by the same Association and entitled, "Is the Bible Infallible?" says:

"It requires only a very slight examination of the way in which the Bible came into existence and of the manner in which it has come down to us, to see that any claim of infallibility for it can be only words without meaning."

On page 25 of the pamphlet, Mr. Sunderland hits the Bible a hard lick. He says:

"There is no use trying to evade it; the Bible contains errors of many kinds. It contains incredible stories, as for example those of the talking serpent, the speaking ass, and Jonah living three days in the fish."

If this fish story is false, then they had Jesus fooled, for in Matthew 12-40, He says: "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the whale's belly, so shall the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." What a pity that some good Unitarian brother or some of Pikeville's learned defenders of the faith, were not present to set Jesus right in this matter.

Mr. Sunderland doesn't take much stock in prophecy, for on page 29 of his book he says:

"There are predictions in the Bible that have never come to pass and some which in the nature of the case, can never come to pass."

But this is not the worst of it. This good brother, one of the leading lights of Unitarianism, after denying both history and prophecy in the Old Bible and discrediting Jesus Christ, again dips his pen in ink as black as stygian midnight and at one swoop wipes the Old Bible and New Testament from their creed. He says:

"The simple truth is there are two Bibles. One is the old and outgrown Bible of tradition, credulity and ignorance. The other is the new, fresh living, imperishable Bible of inquiry, scholarship and intelligence."

Now, the above is Unitarianism, pure and simple, from Unitarian sources which are authentic and recognized by the governing au-

That is What They Say About Them in Mt. Sterling, and It is Therefore, Reliable.

Another proof, more evidence, Mt. Sterling testimony to swell the long list of local people who endorse the old Quaker remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills. Read this convincing endorsement of that remarkable preparation:

Mrs. J. P. Nelson, living at 34 Richmond Ave., Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I can certainly give Doan's Kidney Pills my highest endorsement as they have proven of great benefit to me. My back nearly drove me wild on account of the constant aching. I felt tired and worn out and the least thing would worry me. I also suffered from nervous headaches and was in a miserable condition. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at F. C. Duerson's drug store, I feel like a different woman and take them whenever I feel a slight return of the trouble, and they never fail to give me prompt relief."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE.

We are authorized to announce
JUDGE A. W. YOUNG

as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the Circuit Judgeship in this, the Twenty-first District, composed of the counties of Montgomery, Bath, Rowan and Menefee.

FOR COMMONWEALTH ATTORNEY.

We are authorized to announce
W. B. WHITE,

of Mt. Sterling, as a candidate for Commonwealth Attorney in the Twenty-first Judicial District, composed of the counties of Montgomery, Bath, Rowan and Menefee, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
ALEX. CONNER,

of Owingsville, as a candidate for Commonwealth Attorney in the Twenty-first Judicial District, composed of the counties of Montgomery, Bath, Rowan and Menefee, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR COUNTY CLERK.

We are authorized to announce
JOHN F. KING

as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Clerk of the Montgomery County Court.

FOR JAILER.

We are authorized to announce
W. R. TIPTON

as a candidate for Jailer of Montgomery County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
WILL F. HENRY

as a candidate for Jailer of Montgomery County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR ASSESSOR.

We are authorized to announce
RANDALL S. STOKLEY

as a candidate for Assessor of Montgomery County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

We are authorized to announce
WM. CRAVENS

as a candidate for Assessor of Montgomery County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

FOR SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

We are authorized to announce
PROF. M. J. GOODWIN

as a candidate for re-election as Superintendent of Schools of Montgomery County, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Adaptability, to qualification and moral fitness for, an office are essentials which should not be overlooked in the choosing of candidates. Anybody can draw the salary.

We are not to dictate when announcements are to be made. Our opinion has been expressed. If the candidates are to be nominated because of individual merit we see no reason for hasty action.

WILL F. HENRY.

As indicated in another column, Will F. Henry, of Aaron's Run neighborhood, aspires to the office of Jailer. The position is not an enviable one, as that officer must of necessity come in contact with the lawless, disreputable, dangerous element, native or transient. Our sympathy goes out to men who hold the office of jailer. They "take their life in their own hands" for the protection of the public. They should be courageous, cool, sober, discreet, especially because of the element they have to deal with. Recognizing what he has to meet, Mr. Henry asks the Democrats to give him the nomination.

W. R. TIPTON.

This young man solicits the support of the voters of Montgomery county. He wants to be Jailer. He comes not as one unacquainted with the responsibilities, labors and dangers there. Sad memories cluster around the office, for his father, while jailer, met his death at the hands of an outlaw. More-over he has served as deputy jailer for one year, and knows how and what to do. He promises if elected to do faithful and efficient service.

WM. CRAVENS.

Wm. Cravens, the auctioneer, asks the people to nominate him for Assessor. This is an important office as it has much to do with values and the finance of the county. He has had much experience in sales and ought to know what land and live stock is worth.

A candidate, whose "A Card" appears in this issue, intimates that the turnpike situation in this county has been at some time unsavory. We think so, too, judging from what has been printed and talked.

We insert under heading "Unitarian Faith," an article from Sam Cassity's paper, the Pikeville Plaindealer. To what extent Secretary Taft's religious views will effect his presidential race remains to be seen.

The many accidents reported show the need of care or thoughtfulness. It is dangerous to pull a gun against the hammer, or to speed an automobile, or to take medicine in the dark.

WILL FIND OUT.

By waiting people can find out when and how the Democrats of this county will nominate candidates for county offices.

"Is it right?" should be considered in deciding the questions great and small in our daily lives.

A Card.

I am a candidate for Justice of the Peace in Magisterial District No. 5, composed of Howard's Mill and Johnson precincts, subject to the action of the Democratic party. In view of the controversies in the past between certain persons and factions as to road supervisor, I think it proper to state that if I am nominated and elected I will support for that place some person not heretofore connected with said contestants or factions. Your support is desired.

COLLISION.

Motorman Has Leg Cut Off Below the Knee—Conductor Sullivan Has Skull Fractured.

A head-on collision between an interurban car and a freight car took place in Lexington about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and three persons were badly injured. The injured are: Motorman Liston Miller, leg cut off below the knee, wrist fractured, cut about head and injured internally; may die; Conductor Leonard Sullivan, back of skull injured, sprained back; Madison Taylor, colored, sprained back and shoulder.

A freight dinky had for some unknown reason been left standing on the main track.

As the lights on the freight car had been extinguished it was impossible for Motorman Miller to see the car, as he was blinded by the arc light in front of him.

We Welcome Her to Our City

Miss Nellie W. Shearin, an A. B. graduate, of Caldwell college, June, 1900, has been employed as a teacher in Mt. Sterling Collegiate Institute, and will begin her work Tuesday, September 8.

Miss Shearin is a teacher of several years' experience and comes to this institution with the best recommendations and testimonials from both teachers and patrons.

J. C. Ely, President of Caldwell College, says of her: "A graduate with highest honors of our college, well qualified to teach anything she undertakes, of fine personal appearance, excellent mind, and has the teaching ability. She is thorough, painstaking and careful, kind, yet firm."

H. A. Hayes, President of Reidville Seminary, N. C., where she has been teaching, says of her: "A woman of high personal character and professional ability; one of the strongest teachers I know; has enjoyed and improved excellent opportunities for academic and professional training; knows how to manage and how to teach; and does both with marked success; her pupils love her, obey her, and work for her."

A Poisonous Snake.

The appearance of a rattlesnake in this section is seldom heard of. On Sunday of last week while the family of Jno. Gatewood, on Spencer pike, were sitting in the yard a large rattlesnake was seen on the pavement near the kitchen door. It was 4 feet long and had 11 rattles. It was killed.

FOR RENT—Cottage on Clay Street.

Mrs. S. A. Hainline.

DEADLY TO WHITETOP.

Coppers Will Kill Off Troublesome Weed.

Tests with powdered sulphate of iron (coppers) in a twenty per cent solution have proved that it will kill whitetop—that weed that has been to farmers a great trouble.

Prof. Garman, of the Kentucky Experiment Station, was asked to try the plan some time ago and did so.

A one-horse spraying machine was sent to the State University and a field of whitetop was sprayed.

The test is not yet conclusive as to the heavier or tougher weeds. Prof. Garman says he believes the solution will prove effectual with whitetop and will be inexpensive.

White Hydrants.

The Mt. Sterling Water, Light & Ice Co. has had the water hydrants painted black and white. They can now be easily seen if the Street Commissioner keeps the weeds cut around them. The need of both painting and cutting was recently referred to in the City Council.

Injured His Hip.

David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Prewitt, of Clark, while at Estill Springs, fell and injured his hip. He was taken to Louisville for examination and returned home. The member was only strained.

C. C. Patrick, who has been visiting his cousin, R. B. Crooks, is a Republican and is the Representative from his county. He owns 1700 acres of blue grass land and has 400,000 pounds of tobacco in the pool.

Paralyzed.

On Monday morning Mrs. Lucy Ogg, while engaged in domestic duties, was paralyzed in her left side and fell to the floor. Her many friends hope she will not be seriously effected.

Pardoned.

Wm. Pitman, of Lee, serving a three-year term at Frankfort for bigamy, was pardoned. The Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney recommended the pardon.

Indictments--Whiskey and Cards to the Front.

The Breathright grand jury returned 118 indictments, over half for violation of temperance laws and many for gaming.

William Reed, son of Mrs. D. M. Reed, has recovered from a dislocated elbow and fractured bone. The accident occurred three weeks ago while playing with his dog.

at Taylor's Stock Yards, in Winchester, Kentucky.

Tuesday, Sept. 8, at 1:30 p. m.

Many of the cows are pure bred Jerseys, thirty are fresh, with calf from one week to one month old, two-thirds of which are heifer calves, fawn color. Several of the remainder of the cows are fine springers that will calve in September. Many of the cows will give from four to six gallons of milk per day, and a great many have record of butter per week all have nice sound udders and are free, easy milkers. This lot of Jerseys has been carefully selected by Mr. Brown from the best strain of milkers in Tennessee and Virginia. This lot will make 250 head of Jerseys we have sold in Central Kentucky in the past ninety days. For reference as to their milking and butter qualities we can refer you to our customers who have purchased them and who live in Bourbon, Scott, Fayette, Montgomery, Bath, Nicholas, Harrison, Robertson, Mason and Fleming counties. This is a fine lot, strictly of Jersey colors. Every individual will be sold, regardless of price. If raining, sale will be held in barn. Sale will begin at 1:30 p. m.

MUST ATTEMPT TO FIND OWNER.

Only Thing to Do When One Picks Up Lost Property.

When one is on the public thoroughfare or in the street car or train or boat and picks up an object that is valuable is it his?

True, he may find something which is too small and trifling to warrant searching to find the owner, such as a handkerchief, a pair of gloves, a watch, but when he finds something of value, it is not his until he has done everything in his power to find the owner. The street railways and trains are so systematized to-day that if, when one finds an object of value, he returns it to the company's representative, it is almost sure to catch up with its owner. Every person of intelligence knows that the first place to inquire for it is at the lost and found department.

When, however, one is on the street and finds something which, if he lost it himself, he would very much like to have returned, there are the columns of a newspaper in which to advertise.

If he fails to find the owner after this then he can rightfully call it his own and have a clear conscience, but if he avoids looking over the lost and found columns and fails to do his part toward finding the owner he is almost as dishonest as if he took the goods.

NOT ALTOGETHER AN ACCIDENT.

Husband's Deep Scheme Revealed "in Strictest Confidence."

One Harlem, N. Y., matron was discussing with another Harlem matron the misfortune which she considered had befallen the husband of a third Harlem matron.

"You see," she said, "he went down to the steamer with a friend who was going abroad, and became so interested talking in the friend's cabin that he never noticed the warning whistle, and the steamer sailed with him on board. However, he sent a Marconi gram to his wife, so she wouldn't worry. I dare say he's been kicking himself about the ship ever since."

"Perhaps—and perhaps not," replied the second Harlem matron. "The fact is," he told my husband in confidence ten days ago that he intended to be carried off to Europe accidentally, because it was the only way he could go without taking his wife along. But for heaven's sake, don't mention the matter, my dear, because he told my husband in the strictest confidence."

The Dog.

The dog is man's most faithful friend. A man may lie, but a dog won't; a man may get drunk, a man may slander his neighbor, a man may embezzle and defraud, a man may borrow money, a man may steal money, a man may go into politics, a man may knife his best friend, a man may run people down with an automobile, a man may gamble himself to ruin, a man may waste his substance in riotous living, a man may go to heaven—but a dog won't. Can these things be truthfully said of other friends man has made up him? There is a strong affinity between man and the dog; it must be the affinity of contrast. Yet any man will resent being called a dog. Possibly the dog would resent being called a man if he understood—I do not know. I only know that the maxim works but one way; and if we would say: "Man is the dog's most faithful friend," there would be many a cavil, saying that it was mighty rough on the dog—Success Magazine.

Second-Hand Buttons.

What becomes of all the old buttons? Is there a market for them? There is no accounting for pins, needles or hooks and eyes; but buttons are far more expensive. I know a young matron who has more than 4,000 buttons of all sizes and styles and materials, but she will never wear one on a child's garment. "I could never think of using a second-hand button," she says, putting her little foot down. When she wants a button she sends to the shop for a card of new ones. "Give the old ones to Johnny and let him sell them," she said to her husband; and the poor man has been trying for a month to find a purchaser for Johnny's stock.

Village Income from Golf.

The village of Brancaster, England, has made an arrangement with the Royal West Norfolk Golf club under which it receives four per cent. on the club's gross income, with a guarantee of not less than £50 in any year, for the use of the land which has been converted into links. Each year the money is distributed equally among households of not less than 13 months' residence. This year's distribution has just been made, and the club paid over £63 16 shillings, an increase of £3 12 shillings over last year's contribution. The amount sufficed to give every household in Brancaster five shillings and leave a balance in hand.

Expert Testimony.

A mountaineer testified that he knew a great deal about a moonshiner on trial in a Kentucky court, and thereby got free transportation to Louisville to testify for the state. "What can you tell us about this man?" asked the district attorney. "Waal," he answered, swelling with importance, "I seen this feller riding along the road in the bet of a hot dog on a pacifier ran nas, and awate on a flag and ablowing of a horn; and I ax him if that was a Blue Grass horse or Chittin' breed, and he said it was."—Harper's Weekly.

DEVOTION THAT WAS SUBLIME.

Great Cook True to His Art to the Very End.

Feodier, the great French cook, said at a dinner in New York that a good cook had the spirit of cookery born in him.

"It is born in him," said M. Escotier, and in him it never dies. His first flamed baby word is of food; and a sauce or a navorin is the subject of his last dying breath.

"Did you ever hear of poor Gaston Laurent, the distinguished cook of Palladium's?"

Gaston went on a voyage to the South Seas in '95; his ship was wrecked, and he and his party were captured by cannibals.

"Being plump, Gaston, alas, was the first of the ill-fated party to be consigned to the great iron cannibal."

"And the survivors say that nothing could have been more touching and more sublime than Gaston's last cry from the great pot, as the water began to smoke and bubble and he began to cook—Gaston's last calm cry of a great artist:

"Come, come! It is already past the time for the pepper and salt!"

TALISMANS POPULAR IN MALTA.

Odd Shaped Stones to Ward Off Effects of Snake Poison.

There are still to be found in Malta a number of small stones shaped and colored like livers, tongues and other parts of serpents.

The superstitious among the Maltese connect these with the tradition that St. Paul, when shipwrecked, was cast on their island, and that it was there that while lighting a bundle of sticks for a fire a viper fastened on the apostle's hand. St. Paul calmly shook the reptile off into the flames and no harm followed. The natives wear these stones as talismans, the apostle's hand. St. Paul calmly shook the reptile off into the flames and no harm followed. The natives wear these stones as talismans, the apostle's hand.

"They are found in St. Paul's cave, imbedded in clay, and are set in rings and bracelets, and when found to be in the shape of a tongue or liver or heart are hung around the neck. They are also taken internally, dissolved in wine, which method is attended, according to some people, by more immediate results."

Quaint Fijian Plant.

There is nothing under the sun quite so quaint, so weird and witchlike as the pandanus prairies of Fiji. The pandanus, or screw plant, as it is called, is a most grotesque specimen of the vegetable kingdom even at the best and in the early stages of its growth. In its very young days it is of an extraordinary scrawlike shape and looks as though some unkind hand had taken hold of its long, scrawlike leaves and twisted them round and round. Later on it straightens out a bit and from it grow a number of tall wooden stilts. Its foliage is like a number of drooping, ragged tufts for all the world like mops, and very mournful looking. Among these mops hang the fruit, in shape like a yellow apple, made up of hard red and yellow kernels, woody and fibrous, and quite unattractive from a European's point of view.

A One-Sided View.

"A member of the Georgia legislature," the remarked, "introduced a bill which provided that any man who is injured into marrying a woman who has by artificial means enhanced her beauty may, if he wishes, have the marriage declared null and void. That is to say, if the bridegroom discovers that the bride is compelled when she goes to bed to hang any of her supposed charms upon a chair, he may consider himself free to wed again."

"And what about it," asked the lady, "if a bride discovers, after the ceremony, that the groom wears a wig or dyed his mustache?"

"Any woman who is foolish enough not to know a wig or a dyed mustache when she sees one once over to make any complaint about it."

His Vacation Method.

Miss Lillian B. Hill, the writer of humorous advertisements, told a number of Duluth jewelers, at a recent jewelers' banquet, a good way to get off for a vacation without being missed from business.

"During the last Easter holidays," she said, "I met a jeweler at a seaside hotel."

"Any woman who is foolish enough not to know a wig or a dyed mustache when she sees one once over to make any complaint about it."

A WORTHY INSTITUTION

The Highland Orphans' Home for Mountain Children

OPENED AT CLAY CITY.

Established By the Soul Winners Society.

Last week Dr. E. O. Guerrant was in our city. He is President of the above named society and spoke of the opening of this home for the many orphan children of the Allegheny and Cumberland mountains. From a pamphlet we got these words:

"Phillips Brooks well said, 'He who helps a child, helps humanity with a distinctness and immediateness which no other help gives to human creatures in any other stage of their life can possibly give again.' For years the cry of these orphans has been ringing in our ears. For years we have prayed and hoped for help to save them. Through these years we have received some help from the hands of charitable people, but never enough to provide a home; until at last God inspired a noble woman to give us six thousand dollars to found the Highland Orphans Home. We lost no time in securing the best property for the purpose in the Cumberland mountains. It lies in the suburbs of Clay City, Powell county, on L. & E. R. R., a large substantial brick residence with 39 acres of beautiful land. The building is ample for the accommodation of thirty children. It will be devoted to the care of the orphan girls. We need now a similar home for the boys, and a chapel and dining hall, with suitable furniture for them all. Of course this home will accommodate only a small number of the poor waifs in the mountain region."

OPENING.

The formal opening of this home occurred on Thursday, August 27th, 1908. Among the visitors on that day were from our city the following: Messrs. Elizabeth Harper, Joe W. Stephens, Elizabeth Coleman, Crit Lane and B. F. Herriott, Lexington, Winchester, Wilmore and other places were represented.

One of the ladies who was there gives this account and we are pleased to aid in telling the public of this agency for good:

"The day was perfect for an outing. After a pleasant ride we reached Clay City. Dr. Guerrant's magnetic spirit of good will and sociability had so diffused itself that all were young, happy and joyous. The good people of Clay City conveyed us to the grounds, one-half mile from depot. This 30-acre place lay perfect, just rolling enough; the building modern and attractive and well ventilated. We were met at the hall door by Miss Nettie V. Patterson, the Superintendent. She has had years of experience in an Orphan's Home in St. Louis, Mo., and any city might be proud to secure such a competent lady. Her cordial, easy manner and pleasant words of welcome impress you favorably. She introduced Miss Charlotte DeTienne, the matron, who left a position in California to be with her friend, Miss Patterson. Miss DeTienne is gentle, reticent, but interested and thoughtful. She showed us through the nice, but unfurnished rooms. In the parlor was an organ on which Miss Guerrant played while all sang praises."

Dr. Guerrant delivered an appropriate, effective address. Three little helpless girls were waiting to be taken in. This home is non-denominational, and all can be interested alike in this harvest for the Master. Rev. Dr. Lilly led in prayer. After a song service dinner was announced.

I have not time to describe that dinner which refreshed our bodies. The splendid old hens, chickens, beef salads, croquettes, vegetables, pickles, finest breads, hot coffee, delicious pies, chocolate and coconut cakes and leas. Six baskets were never opened. Can you not judge the hospitality from such a repast? We were served royally. After dinner the organ was moved to the veranda. Mrs. Eaton played, and Miss Bush sang most appropriate songs. Dr. Irving, who is to be Chaplain of the institution, gave us a nice talk. Dr. Lilly in his remarks drew to our minds what we could and would make of the Home and he inspired us to have a hand in the noble work. Miss Patterson then told us how little there was in the way of dishes, bedding, etc. The children will be brought there destitute and need clothing. The house is not sufficiently heated and will need a furnace.

We enjoyed the fine watermelons which Mr. Goody had sent.

We said goodbye and were driven to the city where we waited in a beautiful park until our train pulled in. We extend our heartfelt thanks to Dr. Lilly and Dr. Irving, to all the dear, generous hearted people who fed us so sumptuously and tendered all the kindness possible. We will remember Mr. Eaton so kindly, also his little daughter. I cannot remember all who contributed to our happiness.

Now our duty is clear. The work has begun. I believe it is a direct answer to the faithful working, the fervent prayer of one of God's servants that put it in the heart of our dear sister in Christ, Miss I. V. Irving, of South Carolina, to donate this $6,000. It is the foundation for the salvation, enlightenment and happiness of thousands of souls.

Have you clothes you can send? bedding of all kinds, dishes, furniture, money, eatables? This is a field all can work in.

"Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

Beech Hargis Trial.

Attorneys for Hargis tried to swear Judge Adams off the bench. He fined W. O. Bradley and other attorneys for the defense $20 each for contempt of court because of statements in the affidavit. On Saturday Mr. Bradley left Jackson for Indiana, and the report was out that he had quit the case. The entire week was consumed in above attempt and effort to get change of venue.

The trial of the motion for a change of venue dragged slowly. George Clemmons gave some sensational testimony on Saturday morning. He was cross-examined by Judge D. B. Redwine, and in response to question by Redwine said he had heard many people say that Redwine's influence would prevent the Commonwealth from getting a fair trial. He was asked by Redwine if the said Redwine had influence in this section, and replied:

"People say you were Circuit Judge for eleven years, know all the people and know how to fix a jury."

Judge Adams made an order extending the special term two weeks.

Beech Hargis was called to the stand and stated that his uncle, Floyd Day, had rendered him no assistance in his case; no one had helped prepare his defense except his brother-in-law, Dr. Hogg, and his attorney. He believed Alex and Elbert Hargis were furnishing money to prosecute him. If either of his uncles had done anything for him he did not know it.

Judge Adams on Monday granted to the Commonwealth their petition for a change of venue. The county for the trial of the case is not decided upon.

164 Arrested in Freight Yards in Chicago.

In Chicago on Friday policemen and special officers scoured the freight yards of the Illinois Central railroad and arrested one hundred and sixty-four men and boys who were found in empty box cars. For months the yards have been over run with hoboes. Charges of disorderly conduct were entered against all the prisoners.

REALLY WAS A SIMPLE MATTER.

Prisoner's Acquittal Not Astonishing Under the Circumstances.

"The Allen," said a New York politician, "took a cynical view of man's kind. For one thing, he did not believe in trial by jury. Humanity, he would say, was too corrupt to admit of your setting 12 poor men and true in a jury box together. Then he would tell his ham story."

"A chap, the story ran, was indicted for stealing a multitude of hams—some 600 or 700."

"The trial came. The evidence against the chap was overwhelming. His lawyer leaned to him and whispered:

"You are a gone goose. There is nothing for me to do."

"But the prisoner smiled and replied:

"Just you get up there, please, and make a speech abusing all the witnesses. Consider the number of your fee, you lose heart pretty quickly."

"So the lawyer made a most abusive speech. But the judge, sitting so powerfully against the ham stealer. After an absence of five minutes, however, the jury brought in a verdict of 'not guilty.'"

"Well, I can't understand it," said the prisoner's lawyer, as he left the court arm in arm with his client. "I can't," said the lawyer, with his calm smile. "Every man on the jury had one of the hams."

FORMS OF SPORT IN BURMAH.

Popularity of Bull Racing—Pugilists Strike with Their Eyes Shut.

A form of speculation not generally known in England but very popular in Burma is bull racing. A certain native sportsman is the owner of one of these bulls, for which he has refused an offer of 10,000 rupees. It has won several races and is looked after as carefully as a Derby favorite. The owner values it at 25,000 rupees, and it is said it brings him in an annual income of from 12,000 to 15,000 rupees. Its test is carefully guarded by four men lest it may be got at and "doctored."

Burmans also patronize boxing eagerly, but the art can scarcely be practiced according to Quakerish rules, for we are told by a provincial reporter that he has observed that "even the best boxer strikes out with his eyes tightly shut, and if they do hit each other it is more by chance than anything else."—Calcutta Statesman.

Queer Bird Friendship.

I am deeply interested in watching the strange companionship of one of the rarest black and white woodpeckers with red crown I have ever seen and a sparrow. For two weeks they have been about the yard constantly together and seem to be the best of friends. In front of the window where I am writing they spend a great deal of their time in a dead horse chestnut tree. Near the top of one of the trunks is a very large hole. While Mr. Woodpecker goes in to find some delinquent, Lady Sparrow flies about the top of the chestnut. By their actions when Mr. Woodpecker comes out he must drop a "goodie" down Lady Sparrow's throat. I have never seen his mate around or any other sparrow when they are together. Just these two, who are so different in every way and still seem to be such good friends. Whenever he goes she follows, always flying about the tree where he is working.—Exchange.

His Incorrect Diagnosis.

He was not a regular type of man, or the break he made at a little Missouri hotel never would have occurred. The waitress limped up to him with the graceful gait of a crippled child, and said:

"Steak pork chop ham an eggs an coleman's."

Not hearing anything in the telegraphic sentence that appealed to his civilized appetite, and not realizing the limitations of the hotel, he looked up and asked:

"Have you got frogs' legs?"

"Nah!" said the waitress, indignantly. "Roomatic!"—Chicago News.

"On Himself."

A house painter in a New Hampshire village was proceeding down "the main street" one day when he was accosted by a fellow townsman.

"Hello, Tom!" called the latter. "Why, I thought you were working on old Spinner's house to-day?"

"I was about to commence the job," said the painter, "when the old man picked a quarrel with me. He said he'd put the paint on himself."

"Do you think he'll do it?" asked the other.

"Well," said the painter, with a smile, "when I passed just now, that is where he had put a great deal of it."

Australian Accent.

We follow England very closely. We speak of "lifts" as an Englishman does, and not of "elevators." As the American, but we have "blocks" instead of "fields," and "creaks" instead of "streams," and "scrubs" instead of "woods," and "panhandle" and "quarter" and "hilly ter" instead of "pleasure" and all sorts of lovely Australian things, which make one perfectly homesick to think about. All the same, I am never homesick for the cruel Australian accent.—The British Australian.

Physical Hardships.

"It's a pity that the hand's touch is a failure, but don't be too much cast down. Come, face the music!"

"How can I, when I'm backing it?"—Baltimore American.

PRECISION OF ARTILLERY FIRE.

Exact Science Employed in Methods of Modern Gunners.

How do we hit with accuracy? An observer near the place who sees the target communicates the horizontal and vertical angle at which to lay the mortar and the instant of time at which to fire, and the gun does the rest.

If you were standing at the center of a large clock dial laid flat on the ground and wanted to hit with a baseball a man walking around on the outside, you would notice how long it took the man to go from I to II, and again from II to III; then you would decide whether, if the ball were thrown over a point half way between IV and V just as he arrived opposite IV, the man and the ball would reach the same spot at the same time—it being understood, of course, that he maintained uniform speed, and that the ball was thrown with proper force.

Instruments give us the range and direction, and mechanical devices give us the range differences, increasing or decreasing by certain short intervals of time, too short for a ship or any side to be able to attempt to change direction or speed. Our observer's circle has 36,000 divisions.—(Capt. Howell, in Scientific American.)

FINE VOICES BRING PLAUDITS

Simplicity of Style Generally Unappreciated by Readers.

The girl graduate, flushed and smiling, seated herself beside her father in the automobile and patted the pale blue bow of ribbon on her essay.

"You did like my essay, father?"

"Your commencement essay upon 'Life's Higher Calls,' he said, 'seemed to me to be too long. But listen, here is an autograph letter of John Ruskin's that I bought this morning for $17. Maybe, if you had read this before writing your essay it would have been better.'"

Then the father read the letter aloud, while the young girl listened with a reverent and eager face.

"I was obliged to write too young, when I knew only half truths, and was eager to set them forth by what I thought my friends. People used to call me a good writer then; now they say I can't write at all, because, for instance, if I think anybody's house is better than mine, I don't say so, but I write, 'where formerly I used to say, 'Sir, the abode in which you probably passed the delightful days of youth is a state of infamously and every body used to like the effect of the two d's in 'probably passed,' and the two d's in 'delightful days.'"

He changed it.

It was a red-hot July in July that the colonel was riding horseback along a highway and found a man dead beside the road. He hurried on to the house and found that the owner was one of the county coroners. The man rallied four or five neighbors and proceeded to view the body. They were not five minutes in returning a verdict of suicide.

"But there was no medical examination of the body," protested the coroner.

"No, but you see work is driving with us and we can't spare the time to fool around with the coroner."

"But I don't think he died of suicide."

"No? Then we'll change the verdict to 'frase to death and let it go at that.'"

HISTORIC PEN HELD AS RELIC.

Used by Franklin in Signing Declaration of Independence.

George Edward McLeod, who lives at 2538 North New Jersey street, Indianapolis, does not have much space for a pen, inasmuch as he is not yet five years old, but he is nevertheless the most interesting pen in Indianapolis. It is the one with which Benjamin Franklin signed the Declaration of Independence.

His grandfather, Capt. George W. McLeod, who has passed his eighty-sixth birthday, has handed the relic down to the younger George. Capt. McLeod received it from his grandfather, Alexander McLeod, who was a page in the continental congress.

"Grandfather was a page in that historic congress," said the youthful George's 86-year-old grandfather, "and he was nicknamed 'Sandy' by its members. He gave me this pen, which is made of a wild turkey feather, when I last saw him at our home down in Jefferson county, in 1831."

"You see I was only a shaver, about as big as young George there, when he gave it to me. He told me that all the men who signed the Declaration of Independence did not use the same pen, and that when Franklin signed it, he turned to him and said: 'Here, Sandy, you take this and keep it, and now run along and tell the section to right the bell,' and he then, with this pen in his hand, hastened out to the old man at the bell, and the first music of liberty rang out on the air."

"My grandfather lived to be 85 years old, and now that I have passed that milestone, and my days are numbered, I pass the old relic down to two generations. I came very near, however, turning it over to the old liberty bell people when the bell was in Indianapolis 'seventy years ago.'"

A Blade of Grass.

It was only last spring that I was walking down Macdonald street one morning and noticed a swarthy, olive-skinned Italian lad on the steps of a one-time mansion, now turned tenement, busily poking into the dirty cracks of the stone steps. I stopped a moment and noticed that down one side were already growing encouraging little green sprouts. I asked if he had planted those also, and learned that every day he picked up the ones that were dropped by the horses feeding from their bags, and planted them. Then when they came up, he transplanted them into a paper shoe box, which he proudly pointed out to me on the sill of an attic window.

"Yes, indeed," he informed me, "got a real garden off the nurse, but I ain't sick, so I made one." I looked around, and, verily Tony's box and tiny blades of green blades, and tiny growing things, his eyes could light upon in any direction.

A similar story of appreciation is told of a settlement house, people making her way down Allen street, the dingiest of all East side streets, the darkest and most forbidding, where a little girl, tracing a finger line around two grass blades at the foot of an elevated station pillar.

"You have a flower, haven't you?" she vouchsafed interestedly.

"Tain't no flower, teacher," she said indignantly, "here stands a park!"—The Craftsman.

Cemetery's Strange Uses.

According to the reports submitted by keepers of Pere Lachaise, the famous Parisian cemetery is utilized for many other objects besides the burial of the dead. It is a sort of a resort of thieves who steal the bronze and brass work, which they take bit by bit from the tombs and hide in their pockets. It is also a hunting ground for collectors of curios, who, armed with hooked sticks, break the windows of the little chapels over the tombs and abstract small pieces of silver and other precious metals.

Women, too, make a practice of stealing wreaths of imitation pearls, which they place under their dresses and afterwards sell to dealers as their own make. The cemetery is likewise the resort of sentimental lovers. When these are kissing, very young, the keepers take their names and communicate with their parents. Thus is many a schoolgirl's romance nipped in the bud.

Young and handsome women, dressed in the deepest widow's weeds, are sometimes seen weeping at the tombs of people in no way related to them. This is with an eye to the coming of a male consoler, who eventually departs with the supposed widow on his arm.

And others it is thought advisable to increase the number of keepers.

A Clever Omission.

"Did you write to papa, George?" "Asking for your hand?"

"Of course."

"Yes, I wrote."

"That's strange. I supposed papa would be terribly angry. You know he doesn't like you."

"Yes, I know, but I fixed it all right—I didn't sign the letter."

Abund All Around.

"Who is the old fellow over there with the comic coat, the stovepipe hat and the baggy-kneed trousers?"

"That is the professor who is lecturing on the absurdities of woman's dress."

Easy to Answer.

Niece—Uncle, they say there are more marriages of blondes than of brunettes. Why is it, I wonder?

Uncle Singleton (a confirmed bachelor)—Hm! Naturally, the light-headed ones go first.—Stray Stories.

HAZEL GREEN.

[Breath]

Prof. C. E. Clark has gone to Cannel City to open the grass school on August 31.

W. L. Day and family, of Bettendorf on Monday, August 24, spend a week or more.

R. J. McLin and wife leave August 31 for Rose Hill, Va. Five of their children are now there.

The Academy opens September 8. Although Rev. Derthick resigned as Principal, he will continue to live on the campus a live man will be devoted principally to preaching. Prof. O. Carter is now Principal.

The Fight for Good Government.

Shortly after Grover Cleveland was elected Governor of New York on the Democratic ticket, he wrote to a personal friend, "I am engaged in a life and death struggle with the worst elements of the parties, and the men most active in their attempts to embarrass are men calling themselves Democrats."

The experience of Mr. Cleveland has been the experience of every upright executive officer in this country. "Graft knows no party said Gov. Folk, of Missouri."

Each large community has its mercenary of politics, the greedy politicians, the unscrupulous contractors and the patronage mongers divide themselves between the two parties, as the chances for spoil apply to each individual.

In a Republican city like Philadelphia most of these corrupt call themselves Republicans; in Democratic city like St. Louis they usually style themselves Democrats.

In Louisville the two political parties are pretty evenly divided. Therefore the men who hope to prey upon the city are very evenly divided between the Democrats and the Republicans.

The Evening Post has never believed that the Republicans of this city are better, man for man, than the Democrats.—Louisville Evening Post.

Killed—Grasps Gun of Companion and It is Discharged.

C. F. Clay, of Bourbon county, nephew of Col. E. F. Clay, was accidentally killed in Bourbon county last week. Young Clay started on horseback where a pair of friends were hunting doves, and met the party returning. Messrs. James Woodford, Frank Bedford and John Fowler were with him. Clay reached out to seize the bridle of Woodford's horse but instead grasped the barrel of his gun.

In some way, when he pulled the gun, it went off, the charge entering under Clay's right arm coming out under the left, killing him instantly.

Residence Burned.

On Tuesday forenoon the residence of Mr. Witt, who lives on the Chas. Meng farm, near North Middleton, was completely destroyed with nearly all household goods. Mrs. Witt was alone at the time, and neighbors arrived too late to render much assistance. No insurance on furniture. This is the third house burned on the same foundation.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Methodist Sunday School will give a picnic to-morrow in the Calk woods on Levee pike.
Mrs. John S. Williams and Mrs. Robert Stoner gave a small garden party for Mrs. Reid Rogers on Wednesday last week.
On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Roger Barnes entertained many friends at her home on North Mayville street. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, asters predominating. The guests were welcomed by Misses Ella Stewart, of Winchester, and Daisy Proctor, of this city, and ushered up stairs, where Misses Lucy Stewart, Richie Lane, of Winchester, and Paulina Judy and Julia Morris served tea. The table and tea bowl were attractively decorated. In the parlor Mrs. Barnes received, aided by her mother, Mrs. Stewart, of Winchester; Miss Katherine Sullivan, of Versailles; Mrs. James Ballard, of Bourbon; Miss Mary Lane, of Winchester; Mrs. Wm. Gordon, of Steele, N. D., and Mrs. T. K. Barnes. Assisting in the entertaining were Mesdames Jno. M. Barnes, Prewitt Young, Jno. G. Winn, H. B. Kin-solving, Robt. Howell, James McNeil and Miss Fannie Tipton. The dining room was very attractive, with Mesdames James Kennedy and Pierce Winn at the coffee table, while Mesdames J. A. Vansant, C. C. Turner and Miss Ella Proctor served the guests. Mints and nuts were passed by the little Misses Elizabeth Stewart, Ruth Barnes and Frances Vansant. Individual ices, cakes, coffee and hot rolls were served. The favors, asters, were distributed by the little tots, Mary Agnes Gordon, Louise and Elizabeth Kelly Barnes. It was one of the largest and most elaborate receptions of the year, sustaining Mt. Sterling's reputation for elegant social events. The hostess, always gracious, was much congratulated upon the success of the event. Those from a distance not included in above list were Mesdames Joe Quisenberry, Woodson McCord, Leland Bush, John Johns, Bruce Duty, M. T. On August 9, William Anderson, postmaster at Nicholasville, and Miss Bertha Bittering, of Stepstone, this county, were secretly married at Jeffersonville, Ind. The wedding was kept secret on account of the sickness of the bride's mother. The bride, daughter of Harry Bittering, telegraph operator, while attending Jessamine Institute at Nicholasville, met Mr. Anderson.

DEATHS.

STEELE.—John Steele, aged 89 years on next Saturday, died at his home near Somerset Church on yesterday at 11 o'clock. The funeral service will be held at the home today at 2:30 by Prof. W. H. Cord. Burial in Macpelah. He is survived by an only daughter, Mrs. D. C. Baker.

Mt. Sterling Collegiate Institute.

We count ourselves most fortunate in the make-up of the faculty of our school for 1908-1909.

Miss Georgie Sledd, well-known to patrons and pupils for her careful, painstaking and thorough work, will continue the work she has so well begun.

Miss Nell Whaley, a graduate of Paris City School, and an A. B. graduate of Kentucky University, with two years experience as a teacher, comes to us well qualified for the work she will assume.

Miss Nellie W. Shearin, an A. B. graduate of Caldwell College, and a teacher of experience, comes to us and the work, well equipped and qualified by both scholastic training and natural endowments.

Miss Emma Lee Sleet, our most efficient music teacher of the last session, will again have charge of our classes in music, both instrumental and voice, and will train thoroughly all her pupils.

The school building has undergone some changes—repairs, painting, renovating, etc.—which will add both to the appearance and comfort.

The prospect for a good enrollment of pupils is encouraging, but we still urge patrons and friends to stand by the school and its work and help to build up just such an institution as will be an honor to this section of the State. The session will begin Tuesday, September 8th.

Respectfully,
WM. H. CORD.

PERIOD OF REST PROCLAIMED.

Absence of Light Regulates the Hours of Sleep.

If it were always daytime, we should never sleep. So says a scientist, according to answers. There is no particular reason why we, or any other animals, should rest, on an average, eight or nine hours a day.

The period of rest has been determined by the fact that eight hours is the average time when there is a lack of sufficient light to enable us to move about in comfort.

This most fundamental distinction between night and day is wholly relative to the sense of sight. It only affects those types of life which have developed eyes.

Plants, being dependent for their growth upon the action of rays of sunlight which fall upon their leaves, have a wide distinction between day and night functions.

The lowest forms of animal life—the simplest types of ocean depths—do not rest at regular intervals. They crawl around incessantly, seeking prey by the sense of touch alone. When they rest, it is at irregular periods. In other words, they have no distinct periodicity of their own.

But as soon as eyes are developed, and in proportion to this development, animals begin to divide their time into two main portions—waking and a sleeping time. While there is light, they perform all motive functions. When darkness comes they retire to rest or lair to rest.

ARE MASTERS OF EVASIVENESS.

Bedouin's Answer Typical of the People of the East.

In the far east, when men converse together, an evasion is equal to an answer. Riding down to Egypt over the old caravan route from Jerusalem to Cairo, Norman Duncan and a party pitched their tents outside a Bedouin village and by so doing offended against the laws of hospitality which the people so religiously maintain. Mr. Duncan, writing in Harper's Magazine, says that he was obliged to turn aside their reproaches—and avoid the abominable quarters which were still being offered. Turning to his guide he said: "The man must be diverted. Ask him if the world is round or flat." The reply was a pure philosopher's jewel of the east. "If the world is flat," came the response, after heavy pondering, "I am content; if it is round, it is by God's will. And the men shortly applauded in their pleasure forgetting their injury, forgetting everything except the joyous native craft of words.

The Inquisitive Man.

Wet paint as a test of human curiosity has a rival in the chewing gum test. The apparatus at the One Hundred and Tenth street subway station was out of order the other morning. The first person to discover the fact was a small boy, a yearling for gum. He confidently dropped a penny in the slot, but the toothsome wafer held only half. Repeated thumpings and shakings failed to induce it to appear, and the boy, looking discomfited, was finally persuaded by his mother to go down without it. A half dozen or more persons had witnessed his futile attempt to coax out a piece of gum, but they were in no wise deterred from following his example. Evidently each thought his predecessor had not manipulated the machine properly, and that he could do better, for before the next express train came along five men who apparently had never known what chewing gum tasted like had been sacrificing pennies on the altar of their curiosity—New York Times.

An Ancient "Twenpenny Tube."

A great tunnel which has lately been found at Gezer, in the land of the Philistines, in Palestine, was described at the annual meeting of the Palestine Exploration Fund. Prof. Macalister, whose son has been making the excavations, said that the tunnel, which was made about 2000 B. C., is as high as the "Twenpenny Tube" and half as wide. It descends by 80 steps, the lowest of which is 130 feet below ground. In it is a well. The tunnel is the greatest engineering work that has been found in Palestine, and has astonished every one who has seen it.—St. James Gazette.

On Midsummer Eve.

In European countries, midsummer eve, June 23, is celebrated, and the blessing free from the hilltops are supposed to typify rejoicing at the good luck of the past year, and the burned-out fagots are kept to ward off evil for the coming year. The maidens gather mistletoe with her left hand, and with H. assures for herself her heart's desire, for in this country the culmination of the season is not considered worth a thought.

Two of a Kind.

"Yes," said Maj. Bragg, "I've been in many engagements in my time, but I never lost my head."

"How odd!" exclaimed the summer girl. "Now, I've been in many engagements, too, and never lost my head."

Justice.

The American ambassador arrested in Honduras was arranging terms of escape.

"You're a robber," he exclaimed to the native official. "Why, I might about as well go home and hire a lawyer."

WILL NOT BE CALLED GRANDMA.

Writer Explains, Somewhat Viciously, Why Women Dislike Word.

"The word 'grandma' is dying out," said a lexicographer, or maker of dictionaries, pausing in his labor on the letter G. "By 2000, at this rate, no such word will exist."

"What will take its place?"

"Oh, 'nansie,' 'nans,' 'lovelocks,' 'dearest'—some such rubbish. You see," explained the lexicographer, "women look up to their grandmothers as a figure head, and they are so old, because she has died hard, a painted face, a figure head distended and crumpled, thinks that she looks young. As a matter of fact, she looks neither fish, flesh nor fowl. No man can bear the sight of her. But she thinks she looks young, and, therefore, she won't be called 'grandma.' Youth is over for good, you know—beyond peradventure we are done with the long, long dreams of youth—when a little one is lapsing 'grandma' or 'granda' at our knee. So this old word trains her grandchildren to call her 'nans' or 'kitten,' and getting into her wadded street gown, she trips on rheumatic feet to the beauty parlor for a face-steam."—New York Press.

LET THE CLOUDS BLOW OVER.

"Absence Cure" Works Wonders in Cases of Conjugal Jars.

When symptoms set in of an outbreak of conjugal jars—which may happen sometimes in the best regulated families—it is a capital plan for husband or wife to go off on a solitary holiday for a few days, to let the clouds blow over.

If two persons start jangling and getting on one another's nerves, an "absence cure" works wonders. Both have time for reflection and repentance. So if you and the husband are irritating one another like mild mustard poultices, go and stop a week with friends.

Don't discuss your grievances with the hostess; calm down, forgive and forget, and stay away till you can return in love and kindness.

Short separations taken at the right moment, would save thousands of hot-tempered couples from drifting to the ranks of the "unhappily married."

Pennsylvania Nature Story.

Six weeks ago a workman in the Pennsylvania repair shops in Allentown left two dozen eggs in an abandoned box on the grounds near the Steam pipes go through the box. All over the eggs a heavy layer of coal soot settled.

Three weeks ago 14 sooty chicks arrived. It was found that the steam pipes kept the temperature of the box at 105 degrees. A second hatch of 29 chicks appeared, and so on. Another hatch is being prepared.

Born among the clanging noises of the workhouse, every chick so far discovered is deaf.—Philadelphia Record.

Going Back to the Sailor.

In San Francisco the campaign against rats, led by the president of the plague, is a subject of universal discussion. A conversation reported by a writer in the wall shows that the topic has reached even the children.

"What they hunting up all rats for?"

"Aw, don't yer know nothing? Rats has the plague, that if you see one you'd better look out, 'cause you'll get it, too, maybe."

"If you just see a rat do you get it?"

"Aw, don't yer know nothing? You've got the plague when you've been bit by a flea what's been bit by a rat what's been bit by a sailor."

City Girl's Funny Break.

"I've heard a lot of stories about city people making funny breaks in the country," said a glibby friend of the Cleveland Leader man, who was interlarding with his work the other day, but here's one that really happens. A New York girl was out at our place once and it was the first time she'd ever away from the white city. Well, she wanted to go out and gather hats at this time of the year. I hated to expose her ignorance, so I merely said: "But can you climb trees?"

"Mercy!" she exclaimed, "haven't you any elevators?"

"Banzai" Comparatively Modern.

"Banzai" is the only Japanese word that most Americans know. According to a contributor to Notes and Queries, it is only about 15 or 16 years old. Its birthplace was the imperial university of Tokyo. It was invented by Dr. Shigeno, one of the highest authorities on Japanese literature, in response to a request for an equivalent to the English "Hurrah."

As a brief way of expressing congratulations "banzai" has traveled all over the world.

He Liked Shakespears.

"Who is the fellow Shakespears?" asked a street urchin, as he came out of the gallery entrance to a theater.

"I don't know who he is," replied the boy's companion, "but he's on ter his job, all right. Dat McBat's 'bout de finest show I ever see."

And thus the immortal bard of Avon paid a sincere if unobscure compliment.

Never Tested.

"Have you a tank in the building?" inquired the inspector from the insurance office.

"We hev," admitted the janitor.

"What's the capacity?"

"Patn, an' Ol never had money enough to fufud out."—Bohemian Magazine.

WASHINGTON

Has No Sympathy for Assaultants of Women, But Pleads for Christian Civilization.

The New York World prints a signed statement from Booker T. Washington, in which the eminent Negro educator comments at length upon recent lynchings. In his statement Mr. Washington says:

"Within the past sixty days twenty-five Negroes have been lynched in different parts of the United States. Of this number only four of the twenty-five were even charged with criminal assault upon women. How long can our Christian civilization stand this? I am making no special plea for the Negro, innocent or guilty, but I am calling attention to the danger that threatens our civilization.

"For the Negro criminal, and especially for the Negro loafer, gambler and drunkard, I have nothing but the severest condemnation, and no legal punishment is too severe for the brute that assaults a woman.

"No doubt the people who engage in lynchings, and excuse them, believe that they will have the effect of striking terror to the guilty. But who shall say whether the persons lynched are guilty? That is what courts are for. Those who have examined into the facts know only too well that in the wild justice of the mob it is frequently the innocent man who is executed. Mob justice undermines the very foundation upon which our civilization rests, viz., respect for the law and confidence of its security. There are, in my opinion, two remedies.

"First of all, let us unite in a determined effort everywhere to see that the law is enforced; that all people at all times and all places see that the man charged with crime is given a fair trial.

"Second—Let all good citizens unite in an effort to rid the communities, especially the large cities of the idle, vicious and gambling element.

"And in this connection it would not be just and would not be frank unless I stated that the better of the black race could use their influence, especially in the cities, to see that the idle element that lives by its wits without permanent or reliable occupation or place of abode is either reformed or gotten rid of in some manner. In most cases it is this element that furnishes the powder of these explosions."

The Governor's Remedy.

The pride of every citizen in Kentucky should be humbled to the dust by a perusal of Gov. Willson's statement with regard to the notorious condition of affairs in Bracken county. It is going very far indeed for a Governor to advise citizens to get their rifles down from the racks above their doors and defend their homes from outlaws, with the assurance that they will not be punished by the State if they succeed in killing the destroyer of personal liberty and private property.

Only once in the history of the State has a governor gone so far as to suggest that the time had come when the only means of overthrowing the hoodlum element controlling the courts and terrorizing honest men, was for honest men to arm and shoot to kill. That suggestion was made privately. How it was carried out is a matter of history (in the extermination of the Craig Tolliver clan at Morehead—Ed.)

But Gov. Willson does not go farther than to urge self-defense. This may possibly result in benefits to the State, as it is a service of notice upon county governments that if they can prostitute their offices to save night riders from just punishment they can at least be prevented from using the courts to inflict unjust punishment upon citizens who defend their homes against night riders.

It is unfortunate and disgraceful that it has become necessary for the Governor of a State in a civilized country to issue such a proclamation, and its issuance is not unattended by the risk of disorder resulting from the acts of persons seeking to take improper advantage of it, but in the circumstances it rests with county officers to begin at the eleventh hour to discharge their duties, or to shoulder responsibility for what may occur as a result of their continued declination to regard their oaths of office. Certainly in the advance of protection by the constituted authorities every citizen is fully justified in protecting himself and his home.—Courier-Journal.

ENTER A DENIAL.

H. T. Bradford, County Judge, and George B. Kinney, County Attorney, of Bracken county, authorized the following statement in answer to Gov. Willson's charge that they have been derelict in the discharge of their duty:

"That the statement in the daily press, purporting to come from Gov. Willson, that the County Judge and County Attorney of Bracken county have failed to do their duty as officers of said county is false and has not a word of truth in it. That they have been ready, able and willing, at all times, to do their duty."

Rev. Thomas N. Arnold Died Suddenly on Way to Preach Funeral.

Rev. Thomas N. Arnold, one of the best known ministers of the Christian Church of the South, died suddenly at Frankfort, August 24.

Mr. Arnold ran to catch a street car to go to Versailles to conduct a funeral. The exertion was too much for him, as he was 84 years of age. When the Feeble Minded Institute was reached he got off, and stumbling up to the porch, asked Dr. Bailey to let him rest. "for I'm almost gone," he said. He was given a chair, when immediately he exclaimed, "Oh, Lord." His head fell forward and he was gone.

Rev. Mr. Arnold was educated at Mayville and was a classmate there of President U. S. Grant.

Editors of every Democratic or Independent newspaper throughout the United States will be appealed to by the Democratic National Committee to start subscriptions for the Democratic campaign fund in their newspapers.

A Traveling Man's Experience.

"I must tell you my experience on an east-bound O. R. & N. R. train from Pendleton to Le Grande, Ore., writes Sam A. Garber, a well known traveling man. "I was in the smoking department with some other traveling men when one of them went out into the coach and came back and said: 'There is a woman sick up to death in the car.' I at once got up and went out, found her very ill with cramp colic her hands and arms were drawn up so you could not straighten them, and with a death like look on her face. Two or three ladies were working with her and giving her whiskey. I went to my suit case and got my bottle of Colic, Cholera and Rheumatism Remedy (I never travel without it), ran to the water tank, put a double dose of medicine in the glass, poured some water into it and stirred it with a pencil; then I had quite a time to get the ladies to let me give it to her, but I succeeded. I could at once see the effect and I worked with her, rubbing her hands, and in twenty minutes I gave her another dose. By this time we were almost into Le Grande, where I was to leave the train. I gave the bottle to the husband to be used in case another dose should be needed, but by the time the train ran into Le Grande she was all right, and I received the thanks of every passenger in the car." ## Tobacco Being Stored in Cincinnati.

Much of the 1907 crop of Equity pooled tobacco is being shipped to Cincinnati from the Burley belt to be stored until ready to put on the market. The Growers and Shippers Warehouse Co., which is represented in Central Kentucky by Thomas Prather, of Lexington, is getting much of this tobacco. This company advances money to the growers on their tobacco stored with them.

The Western Growers' Journal, of Cincinnati, stated that 12,518 hogheads of the 1907 crop of Equity tobacco is now stored in Cincinnati warehouses.

Nervous Worn-Out

If you are in this condition, your nerve force is weak—the power is giving out, the organs of your body have "slowed up," and do their work imperfectly. This failure to do the work required, clogs the system and brings distress and disease. When the nerves are weak the heart is unable to force the life-giving blood through your veins; the stomach fails to digest food; the kidneys lack power to filter impurities from the blood, and the poisonous waste remains in the system to breed disease. Nerve energy must be restored. Dr. Miles' Nerve will do it, because it strengthens the nerves; it is a nerve medicine and tonic, that rebuilds the entire nervous system.

"Several years ago I was all broken down. I was nervous, worn-out, could not sleep, and was in constant pain. I doctored for months and finally the doctor said he could do nothing for me. I began taking Dr. Miles' Nerve and I became strong and healthy, and now weigh 175 pounds." H. C. CUNNINGHAM, 108 Ellsworth Ave., Allegheny, Pa.

Dr. Miles' Nerve is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will bring you relief. It will refund your money. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.
